As part of the Whiffin's East End exhibition programme, Tower Hamlets Local History Library & Archives commissioned Chris Dorley-Brown to develop a contemporary response. Appraising the territory of Poplar today, imbued with the spirit of the old master, paying particular attention to some of his lesser known photographic works, pictures that have ambiguous function and origination, their original intention lost in time. Chris's artist's talk will explore the research processes of his work-in-progress, and how Whiffin's skills and techniques still have a relevance and meaning today in a vastly changed landscape.
